PRICE FIVE CENTS

Among the things that might have been put less ambiguously, was that recent at "Chom" on the gas meeting. Joe Clarke will speak.

If you want an illuminating reply to the electric light department. What's wrong with the lights? A customer found out. He went out the other night. "Ain't nothing wrong with 'em," said the 22-year-old other end, "There ain't none."

A doctor says yawning helps to develop the lungs.—That's why we always read those bright sayings of child ren.

Terrot mother has just won a $25 prize for having 19 children. Her own mother also never won the Champion.

News wire from San Diego says a seal has been living on a lion tamer for some weeks. A bit odd, but true.

No live, that when the cops get you you won't have any trouble in finding lots of bail.

An English tourist says Americans are more intelligent than their own countrymen because they read the papers more and go to the theatre often.—Nasty bit of sarcasm. What, what?

A church congregation urges wrapping all babies.—Pretty long odds, but what'll it get a baby like enough.

Walking down back stairs reminds that in but a few months time, Spring will come, and we'll be looking for the snow and slush.

J. W. Foster, president of the newly formed Gas Consumers' League, denies that the organization has any intention of helping municipal candidates obtain cheaper hot air.

A production paper of the Toronto Globe, B. C. McQueen, as saying "Magistrate Murphy's official statement is correct." Here papers are in ways more or less "magistrate Murphy's" but maybe the paper and Mr. Murphy don't use the same papers.

A NEW ENCYCLOPEDIA.—H. B. Shaw. He's awful close. He never says nice words of queen and king. And also the church and state—all sorts of things.

He lives on food. That wouldn't suit most folks—just nuts and fruit.

Mayor's why he doesn't care a hoot. For handkerchiefs in his home. We admit he has a smelly tongue, a pretty well.

And lots of brains. Through their hair. Through their hair. Through their hair. Through their hair.

People contentedly say, "Oh,shaw"

GREAT LAKES SHIPPING HARD HIT BY STORM

One Steamer Goes On Rocks
Another Loses Rudder
Dock Collapses

SAULT STE MARIE, Mich., Nov. 19.—A steamer wrecked, another in trouble, the collapse of coal docks and the destruction of several fishing boats were items of storm damage that were reported here today over crippled communication lines.

The Cottonwood, carrying 2,000 tons of copper ore, was on the rocks near Copper Mine Point in Lake Superior, in a driving snow-laden gale.

When the tug Alabama, reached the freighter, she found it sheathed by the crew and in danger of breaking up if the wind turned to the west. The Cottonwood's bow was fast on the rocks and her stern was 14 feet in water.

Crew Believed Safe
There has been no word of the Cottonwood's crew, but the men are believed to have left in a lifeboat for a lumber camp on Marquette Bay, 12 miles from the point.

Radio reports described steamer losses as proceeding off Isle Royale with a steamer that had lost its rudder. The steamer was reported seen as the Wren and again as the Widener. The report said the Wren and her tow were seen off the northwest wind for shelter behind Nottawegon Point.

At Menominee, part of the Riley-Minkor coal company docks collapsed, dumping 1,000 tons of coal into the river. Ferry service across the Straits of Mackinac was halted yesterday by the storm. Many commercial fishermen suffered losses in the storm.
